Abstract

This study discusses the personal libraries of Bollywood celebrities, their love for libraries, and their reading culture. It examines how these libraries help people want to read more and learn more about libraries in India today. It was found that Famous movie stars like Shah Rukh Khan, Aamir Khan, and Saif Ali Khan enjoy reading. It also looks at what they do to help people learn and get interested in books. The study uses things like interviews, what they post on social media, news articles, and what they have said in public to figure out which kinds of books Bollywood celebrities, like Shah Rukh Khan, Aamir Khan, Saif Ali Khan, Twinkle Khanna, Soha Ali Khan, Pankaj Tripathi, and others, like to read.

The findings show that celebrity libraries are not just collections of books; they are also places where people can be creative, learn new things, feel comfortable, and connect with their culture. Celebrities like to read. They make time for it in their busy lives. They also do things for people by giving books to libraries, helping libraries in rural areas, teaching kids to read and telling people how important reading is. This study also shows that celebrities can do more than just entertain us; they can also help people like reading and libraries. When celebrities talk about books in a newspaper interview or on social media, read with their families, and discuss them, it really helps get more people excited about reading. Celebrity libraries are really important because they help people see that reading is cool and fun. That's why the masses may also follow the reading culture, building libraries and donating books to libraries.

These celebrities are really important for getting people to read and care about literacy. They have many books in their libraries, and they like to talk about the books they read. This shows us that, apart from various technologies, books and libraries are still really important. They are doing their part to keep the culture of reading alive in India.

Introduction

Bollywood celebrities have a significant influence in India. They shape what people think and how they behave. This includes how people feel about reading and libraries. We looked at the libraries of Bollywood celebrities. We also looked at what they do to help people learn to read. We found out about their libraries from things they have said and done in public. We saw how they set up their home libraries and what they donate to help people read in the library. Famous people play an important role in shaping public opinion.

Bollywood celebrities are very famous among Indian people. They affect how people behave and the choices they make. People are often interested in what they do in their free time, including what they read. When Bollywood celebrities talk about what they're reading, they are showing people that books are important and that they have a home or personal library. They are also showing people that libraries are useful. We wanted to see which celebrities have personal libraries, what their reading habits are, which celebrities donate to libraries, and what they like to read. We wanted to know what their libraries are like. We also wanted to know if they can help get more people to read and use libraries. In India, fewer people are reading than they used to. Bollywood celebrities can help change this. They can show people that reading is fun and important, and it may enlighten us. These celebrities may advocate for reading.

Literature Review

This study examines a personal library as a window into culture and society. It tells us about how people read, how they figure out who they are, and how they relate to their families. The study uses the idea of gifts to understand books. This helps us see how the things that matter to us, like our feelings and the culture we come from, affect the books we collect. A personal library is like a record of what happens in our lives and in our families over time. It is always changing. The library shows us what is important to us as individuals and what is passed down from one generation to the next. A personal library is a collection of books that tells us a lot about the people who own them (Buckridge Pat, 2013)^[4].

The Odesa National Scientific Library has valuable collections of private books for learning about the past. These private book collections help keep our cultural heritage alive. They also show what people were interested in a long time ago. When prominent persons donate their libraries to libraries, it benefits the public and helps us understand why books are important to scholars and how they have developed over time. Private book collections in the Odesa National Scientific Library are a resource for people who want to learn about book culture (Кушнір, 2020).

In the research study of Sharma & Naskar, there is a library called Pustaka Mane, meaning House of Books. The person who started it, Anke Gowda, is a leader who wants to help people. He shares his books with everyone. They discuss and learn from each other. The Silent Library and the disciplinarian librarian are different. They do not focus on sharing and learning together. The Community Hub and the Facilitator Librarian focus on helping people. They make the library a fun place to be where people can share books and learn from each other. The main goal is to help people and make learning fun at Pustaka Mane, the House of Books (Sharma & Naskar, 2026)^[38].

This study reveals how personal libraries have changed from the nineteenth to the twenty-first centuries. It shows how personal libraries are important for our culture, history and way of thinking. The study discusses how personal libraries are created, how we know what is in them, how we keep them safe, and how people can use them. It also examines the marks owners leave in their books and how computers and other digital technologies are changing the way we keep and transform our personal book collections. Personal libraries are really important. This study helps us understand their value (Lizunova et al., 2021)^[22].

The library is arranged by author. It has books with notes, small papers and displays. These items help us see what influenced Roth, how he researched and what he thought about. This library is helpful for people studying books and for regular readers who want to learn more about Philip Roth and his work. The Philip Roth Personal Library has a lot of information about Roth's reading and writing. It has books that Roth read and used for research. The library is at the Newark Public Library. It helps people understand Roth better.

David Garrick had more than 4,000 books. He made a library with all kinds of books and a smaller one with old English plays. David Garrick liked collecting books. It was something he did for himself, not because of his acting career. As time went on, collecting books became a deal for David Garrick. It helped him become more important to people. The thing is, David Garrick did not keep track of his books very well. His books got scattered around. Today, we do not really know where all of David Garrick's books came from or what he used them for (Milhous, 2020)^[28].

Discussion on Personal Libraries

The personal libraries of Bollywood celebrities are really places of study, enjoyment, and relaxation. They are not just there to look fancy or show off how rich they are. These libraries are actually very important to the celebrities because they reflect who they are, what they care about and what they like to do. The study shows that, in the movie industry, where everything is about glamour, books and libraries remain very important. These personal libraries are part of celebrities' lives because they help them be creative, think critically, and keep learning. For celebrities, their libraries are private spaces where they can think, relax and come up with new ideas.

Several celebrities have collections of books on topics such as literature, movies, biographies, spirituality, history, and self-improvement. Shah Rukh Khan has a big library at his house called Mannat. It has all kinds of books, including fiction, biographies and books about making movies and being creative. that they really value reading. This shows us that it is very important to pass on a love of literature to the next generation. Like Saif Ali Khan thinks of books as friends that help him learn and grow, and that increase his thinking power. Konkona Sen Sharma reads books to escape and think about her feelings.

Another interesting thing the study found is that modern celebrity libraries are not only for books but also for looking nice and feeling good. Twinkle Khanna's library is a space that combines books with decorations, plants, art and a nice lifestyle. This shows that bookshelves are now a way for people to show off their tastes and who they are. The libraries of celebrities like Mira Rajput and Kareena Kapoor Khan show how libraries can help families bond, make memories, and spend time together.

The study also talks about how reading can help people during times. Sanjay Dutt found comfort in the prison library when he was in jail. Om Puri read books in the early days of struggling. These stories show that books and libraries can be very helpful and therapeutic. Overall, the study shows that the personal libraries of Bollywood celebrities are very important to them. They are places where they can learn, be creative, feel safe and connect with their culture. These libraries play a role in shaping who they are both personally and professionally.

Discussion on Library & Reading Promotional Efforts

The study shows that Bollywood celebrities play a significant role in encouraging people to read and appreciate books and libraries in India. Because they are so famous and influential, celebrities can change how people behave. When they talk about books and reading, it makes other people want to do the same thing. This is especially true for people who look up to these celebrities. The study found that celebrities can do more than just entertain people; they can also help people learn and become more aware of their culture.

One big thing the study found out is that some celebrities really care about libraries and education. They give money and support to libraries and schools. For example, Shah Rukh Khan gave some of his books to a library in Jaipur called Book Fever. This helps people who cannot afford books to read them. Amitabh Bachchan also gave books about the Mahabharata to a library rather than keeping them for himself. When celebrities do things like this, it shows that libraries are places where people can go to learn and gain knowledge. Bollywood celebrities are helping to make reading and libraries popular in society. Bollywood celebrities are making a difference by supporting libraries and education.

The findings show that celebrities help people learn to read and write by making initiatives to build libraries. For example, Rishina Kandhari built a library in a school in an area of Maharashtra. Yami Gautam also helped with a library project for kids in an area of Kolhapur. Pankaj Tripathi even opened a library at the school he used to attend so students could read more. These things show that celebrities recognise how important libraries are for education and for ensuring everyone has a chance to learn, especially in rural areas where people may have less access to resources.

Another thing is that social media and being in the public eye can get people to read more. Celebrities like Soha Ali Khan, Konkona Sen Sharma and Manoj Bajpayee often talk about books. What they have read in interviews and on the internet. When they do this, reading seems like something to do. They talk about all sorts of things, like literature, philosophy, and feminism, which people may not usually hear about. This helps people learn about things and makes them want to read more. Celebrities like Soha Ali Khan and Manoj Bajpayee are really good at getting people excited about reading. That is a good thing for everyone.

The study shows that celebrities help increase reading culture. They do this by reading with their families. Soha Ali Khan always reads to her daughter. She tells everyone that it is very important for kids to know how to read. Sharmila Tagore and Konkona Sen Sharma do the thing. They like telling stories and reading with their families. This makes parents and kids think that reading is fun to do at home. It also says that Bollywood celebrities are helping increase reading habits. They have a collection of books and enjoy reading. They also start programs to help people learn to read. All of these things help people know that books and libraries are very important in our lives today. Bollywood celebrities, like Soha Ali Khan, Sharmila Tagore and Konkona Sen Sharma, are helping people to like reading. They are helping to make reading a part of our lives.

Overall Discussion

The study shows that Bollywood celebrities really enjoy reading. They like to go to libraries. They think reading is important. This is not what most people think. Most people think that film stars do not like to read or learn things. This study says that it is not true. Many Bollywood celebrities like to read. They think it helps them in both their personal and work lives. They like to read because it helps them learn and grow as a person. These celebrities use their fame to promote the value of reading and encourage everyone to read. Reading is a part of their life, and they want to share that with others. Bollywood celebrities and books are connected in a way.

Personal libraries are really important to celebrities like Shah Rukh Khan, Aamir Khan, Saif Ali Khan and Twinkle Khanna. These personal libraries show us that books are a part of being creative and growing as a person. Personal libraries are not places where people keep their books; they are spaces where people think and generate new ideas. Personal libraries help people figure out who they are and what kind of art they want to make. The study found that reading remains part of creativity, even for people working in the film industry. Personal libraries, like those owned by Shah Rukh Khan, Aamir Khan, Saif Ali Khan and Twinkle Khanna, are a deal because they help these celebrities with their creativity, emotional growth and intellectual sophistication.

Libraries are not about books and studying. They are places where people can be creative and think deeply. Libraries are also where people can heal emotionally and spend time with their families. Some libraries even have art and pretty designs inside. These libraries are not about reading; they are about the way we live our lives. Libraries like these can help people see libraries in a way. This can make libraries more interesting to people who live today. Libraries are really about books. Also, about the things that make life worth living, like art and good memories. Modern libraries, like those owned by famous people, are an example of this. Celebrities influence how people think about reading and libraries. When they talk about reading, it makes people want to read too. When celebrities talk about the books they like, it makes people want to read those books. They post about the books they like on social media, and they talk about them in interviews. They also do things related to books. This helps people think that reading is important. Celebrities are like a bridge between the things people do for fun and the world of reading. Reading is something celebrities do, and they are smart and successful, so people think reading must be something to do. Celebrities make reading seem fun. They make people want to read more. They are famous. People listen to what they have to say, so when they say that reading is cool, people start to think it is too.

This study says that when celebrities start or support libraries in their society, it will be very helpful. If these celebrities donate books to their school or public libraries, or start a community reading program, this could be a truly bold step. This shows how famous people can help people learn things and feel like they are part of the community. This is very true in a country like India, where celebrities can make a difference because some people have more access to good schools and books than others do. Famous people helping with reading programs can really change lives in India.

Bollywood stars are doing a lot to help people with reading. They are having their libraries discuss books and explain why reading is important. Famous people from Bollywood are making sure people do not forget about books and libraries. Famous celebrities from Bollywood are helping to keep reading popular. They want to make sure everyone knows that reading is still important. Famous personalities from Bollywood are really helping to keep people interested in reading.

Conclusion

The present study examines the personal libraries of Bollywood celebrities. It shows that many Bollywood celebrities really love books. They have a connection with books that we can see in the books they read, the way they talk about books and the things they do to help people learn. These personal libraries are not pretty rooms in their homes. They are places where Bollywood celebrities can be creative, think deeply, learn things and remember where they come from. The study found that reading is very important for Bollywood celebrities. It helps them become artists, learn and grow as people, and do their jobs more creatively. Bollywood celebrities and their personal libraries are very important for promoting reading in India.

Celebrities really help people towards reading. They can help in various ways, such as donating books. Build libraries in schools and small towns. They also tell their followers how great reading is. Some celebrities even support Little Free Libraries. When they talk about books in public, it makes the masses think that reading is important. Celebrities talk about reading in interviews, in the books they write, in the media and when they appear in public. This helps citizens think that reading can improve their lives. Celebrities make people want to read by talking about how they love reading. Reading is something that celebrities like to do.

The study also tells us something that is really important. People think film culture is different from reading culture. That is not true. Actually, a lot of Bollywood celebrities really like to read and learn about things, like literature, philosophy, spirituality, history and writing stories. When we look at the books they have at home, we can see that they like the kinds of things their families liked, and they like to keep learning new things all their lives. Bollywood celebrities and reading culture don't go together.

The study aims to show how libraries are still really important to people, despite the digital stuff around. Libraries that famous people have are changing. They are not just about books. They are about learning, looking good, remembering things, feeling happy and being creative. The study says that famous Bollywood personalities can really help people in India who want to read more, learn more about libraries, and care about literacy. Libraries and reading are good for people and society, so Bollywood celebrities can play a role in making that happen in India today.
